Opportunities for you Chairman's Foreword

Welcome to Viridor Credits' annual report for 2013-2014. It is with great satisfaction that I can say that it has been another successful year for Viridor Credits, with £15million allocated to 320 projects in the last 12 months, and an average of £900,000 being spent each month on our projects. We are starting to see the efforts of the Admin Team and our changes to processes bear fruit for the scheme, meaning more money is reaching communities than ever before.

In March, all eyes were on the Chancellor's Budget and the future of the Landfill Communities Fund.

The Government's Challenge in 2010 for all Environmental Bodies to reduce unspent funds and increase spend had put the future of the scheme in doubt. Happily, the scheme is as strong as ever in its twilight years. Viridor Credits has produced a short report on the complexities of meeting the challenge, which can be read on our website, with a short version overleaf.

Next year will see the end of the Landfill Communities Fund as we know it in Scotland, as changes to Scotland's tax system take effect. Viridor Credits is proud to have worked with many community groups and trusts in delivering many important projects, and is celebrating the legacy of the Landfill Communities Fund with our Legacy:Scotland programme. More information is available on our website, or by contacting the Admin Team.

Looking forward for the rest of 2014, projects such Alfred's Tower and our Legacy:Scotland scheme illustrate the importance of the Landfill Communities Fund to local people, the economy and our heritage, and I call upon all potential applicants to Think Big for what they can do for their communities.

Dr Ian White MSc PhD MBE
Chairman, Viridor Credits Environmental Company

General Manager’s Foreword

For the past four years, Environmental Bodies up and down the country have been working hard to meet the challenge set by Government in 2010. This challenge focused Environmental Bodies on reducing the amount of unspent funds held in accounts, while increasing spend on projects. At Viridor Credits, we have introduced a number of new or amended policies that have allowed us to commit more money than ever before, whilst also increasing project spend to record levels.

However, we can’t do it without the help of our applicants, and it is more important than ever that community groups and trusts approach Viridor Credits for help with their projects. Without our applicants, the Landfill Communities Fund would not exist.

This last year has seen a small change in staffing, with Issy White and Lisa Willcocks leaving Viridor Credits and Lucy Takle and Nick Berry (pictured) joining us as an Administrator and Project Liaison Officer respectively.

These are exciting times for Viridor Credits and the Landfill Communities Fund, and we look forward to another successful year of funding quality community projects.

Viridor Credits’ Response to the Challenge 2010-2014

The following is an extract from Viridor Credits’ report on the changes in processes and their effects in light of the Challenge 2010 and Challenge 2011 schemes. The full version can be read on our website.

The Challenge

In the Budget of 2011, the Treasury issued a challenge to Environmental Bodies to reduce the level of unspent Landfill Communities Fund monies held at 31 March 2010 by 15%, with a corresponding increase in project expenditure by 31 March 2012. In 2012, this Challenge was reviewed by the Treasury and the target level of unspent funds reduced by a further 10%, making a 25% reduction of unspent funds from the 31 March 2010 baseline by 31 March 2013. This deadline was extended in 2013 for 12 months to 31 March 2014.

Outcomes of Viridor Credits’ response to the Challenge

Monthly project spend has increased by 44% since 2009/10 from c. £633,000 to c. £910,000.

Viridor Credits has seen a twofold increase in funds committed in 2013/14 compared to 2009/10.

Uncommitted funds set to decrease by 80% by 31 March 2014.

Total unspent funds set to increase by 24% by 31 March 2014.

After a strong response at the start of the challenge, the raft of changes made to processes meant that Viridor Credits was on course to meet the 25% reduction of held funds, albeit slightly after the challenge deadline, due to a marked increase in monthly spend and funds committed to projects. The processes implemented by the Board were considered sufficient, without having to make radical changes to Viridor Credits’ operations.

However, an increase in income in 2013/2014, whilst great news for communities, was an unexpected barrier to meeting the challenge, which has galvanised the Viridor Credits Board into considering further changes in order to bring unspent funds down to an acceptable level.

In order to ascertain the most effective way to rapidly decrease the amount of held funds, the VC Board consulted with other major EBs to share best working practices and knowledge.

Following these consultations, the VC Board is now considering further actions.

As a part of the Viridor Credits Board’s re-evaluation of the response to the challenge, the structure of the office was also reviewed.

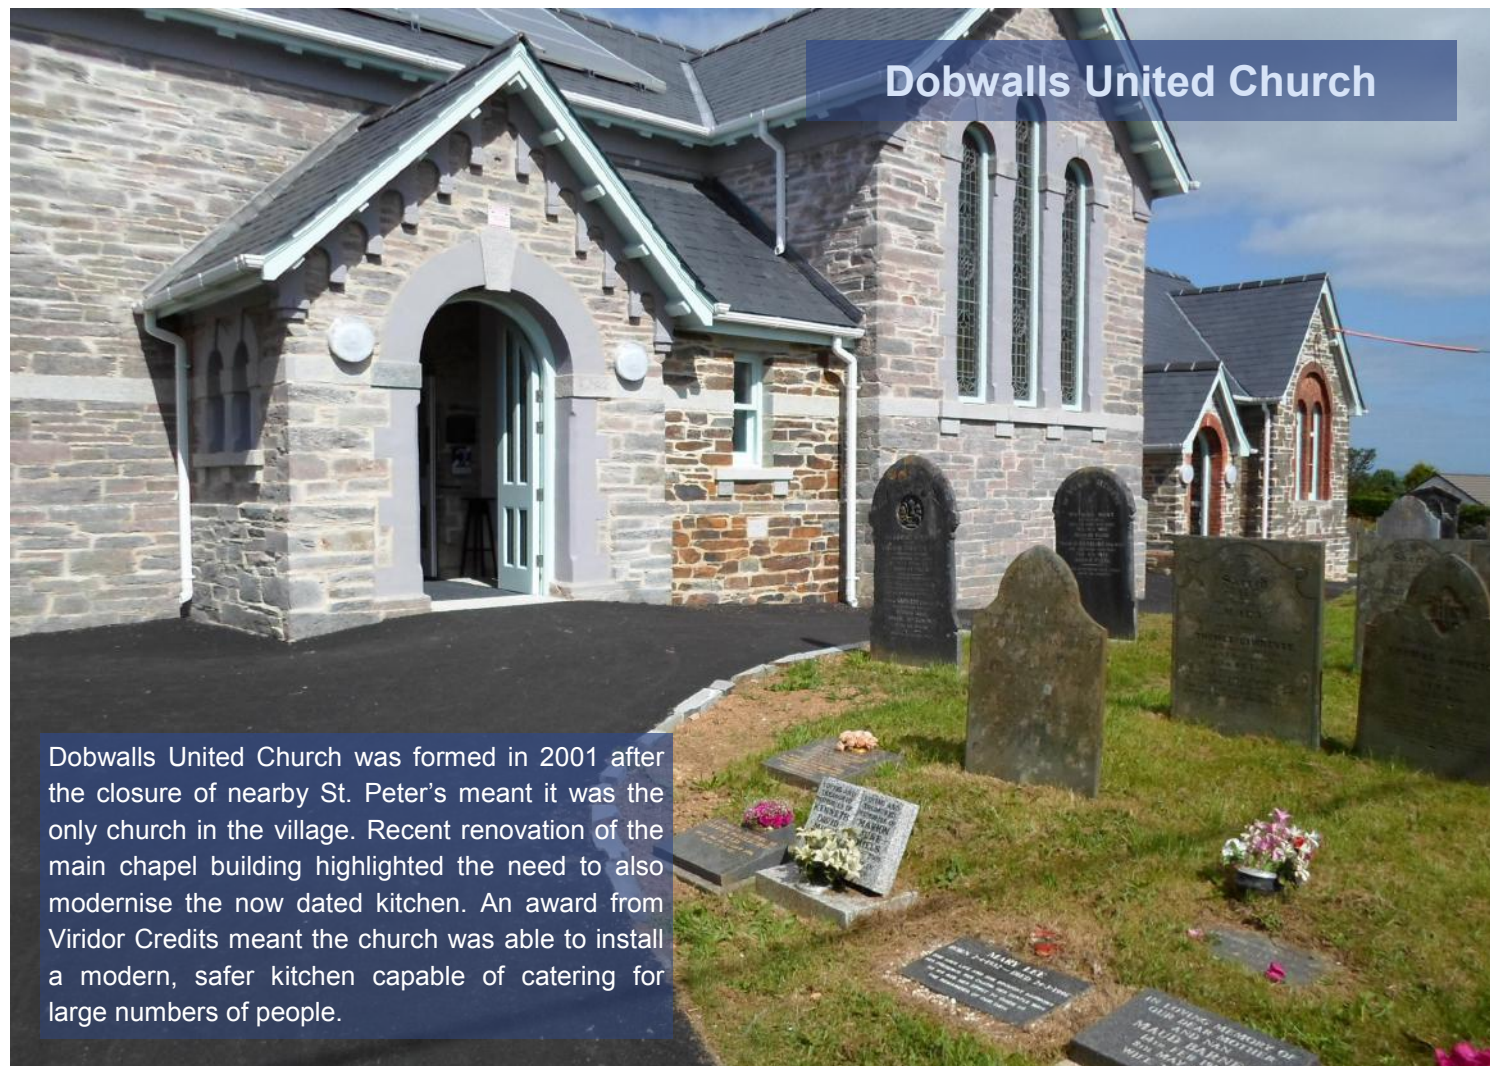

Viridor Credits will continue to work hard to meet the aims of the challenge without compromising the integrity of the scheme, imposing limits or quotas on our steering groups and whilst maintaining a culture of value for money. Viridor Credits has not implemented any process that exposes LCF funds or the landfill operator to additional risk.

Viridor Credits and the Landfill Communities Fund as a whole is seen as a highly-respected, powerful seed-corn funder as well as a robust and well-managed scheme.

Glastonbury Abbey

Glastonbury Abbey in Somerset, once the grandest in England, is now a post-reformation ruin, albeit a beautiful one. As much a part of preserving the ruins is educating visitors about the history of them, through interpretation, tours and the Abbey’s Living History team. The 14th century Abbot’s Kitchen was the focus of recent conservation works, transforming the rare medieval kitchen into a replica of a working Tudor kitchen. As one of the richest abbeys of its day, the kitchen would have been a hive of activity, producing a varied range of dishes influenced by Britain’s diverse cultural background. This project compliments the Abbey’s ongoing restoration of the Lady Chapel, also funded by Viridor Credits, both schemes comprising the most comprehensive programme of conservation at the abbey for 100 years.

Dobwalls United Church

Dobwalls United Church was formed in 2001 after the closure of nearby St. Peter's meant it was the only church in the village. Recent renovation of the main chapel building highlighted the need to also modernise the now dated kitchen. An award from Viridor Credits meant the church was able to install a modern, safer kitchen capable of catering for large numbers of people.

Pilton Road Community Garden

The site of former allotments at the end of Pilton Road, in the village of North Wootton, was the beneficiary of HLF funding to convert the site into a community garden and vegetable patch. Saved from development in 2009 by a committee of villagers, the site later received funding from Viridor Credits to improve access to the site.

Avebury Barn

The village of Avebury in Wiltshire is well-known for Europe's largest megalithic stone circle that partially encloses the village. But the village's wealth of ancient attractions doesn't end there. The splendid 16th century Avebury Manor recently underwent a televised restoration and the nearby 17th century barn was most recently the beneficiary of Viridor Credits funding. The barn, partially dating back to medieval times, is a relative rarity in the area, making it more than worthy of preservation, as well as being an exhibition area for the findings of archaeologist Alexander Keiller. The building was suffering from rain ingress, so often the enemy of ancient buildings, due to deterioration of the thatch. This was affecting the oak frame of the building as well as impacting on the services and displays within the barn. With new thatch, the barn is once again weather-proof, ensuring the building will remain open for many years to come.

West Dean Playground

The playground of West Dean, on the Hampshire/Dorset border, received a raft of new equipment and improved access due to the efforts of West Dean Playground Committee and an award from Viridor Credits. Funding was also awarded for the construction of the wooden pavilion, which was designed by villagers. With no school in the village, the playground gives local children and parents a place to socialise.

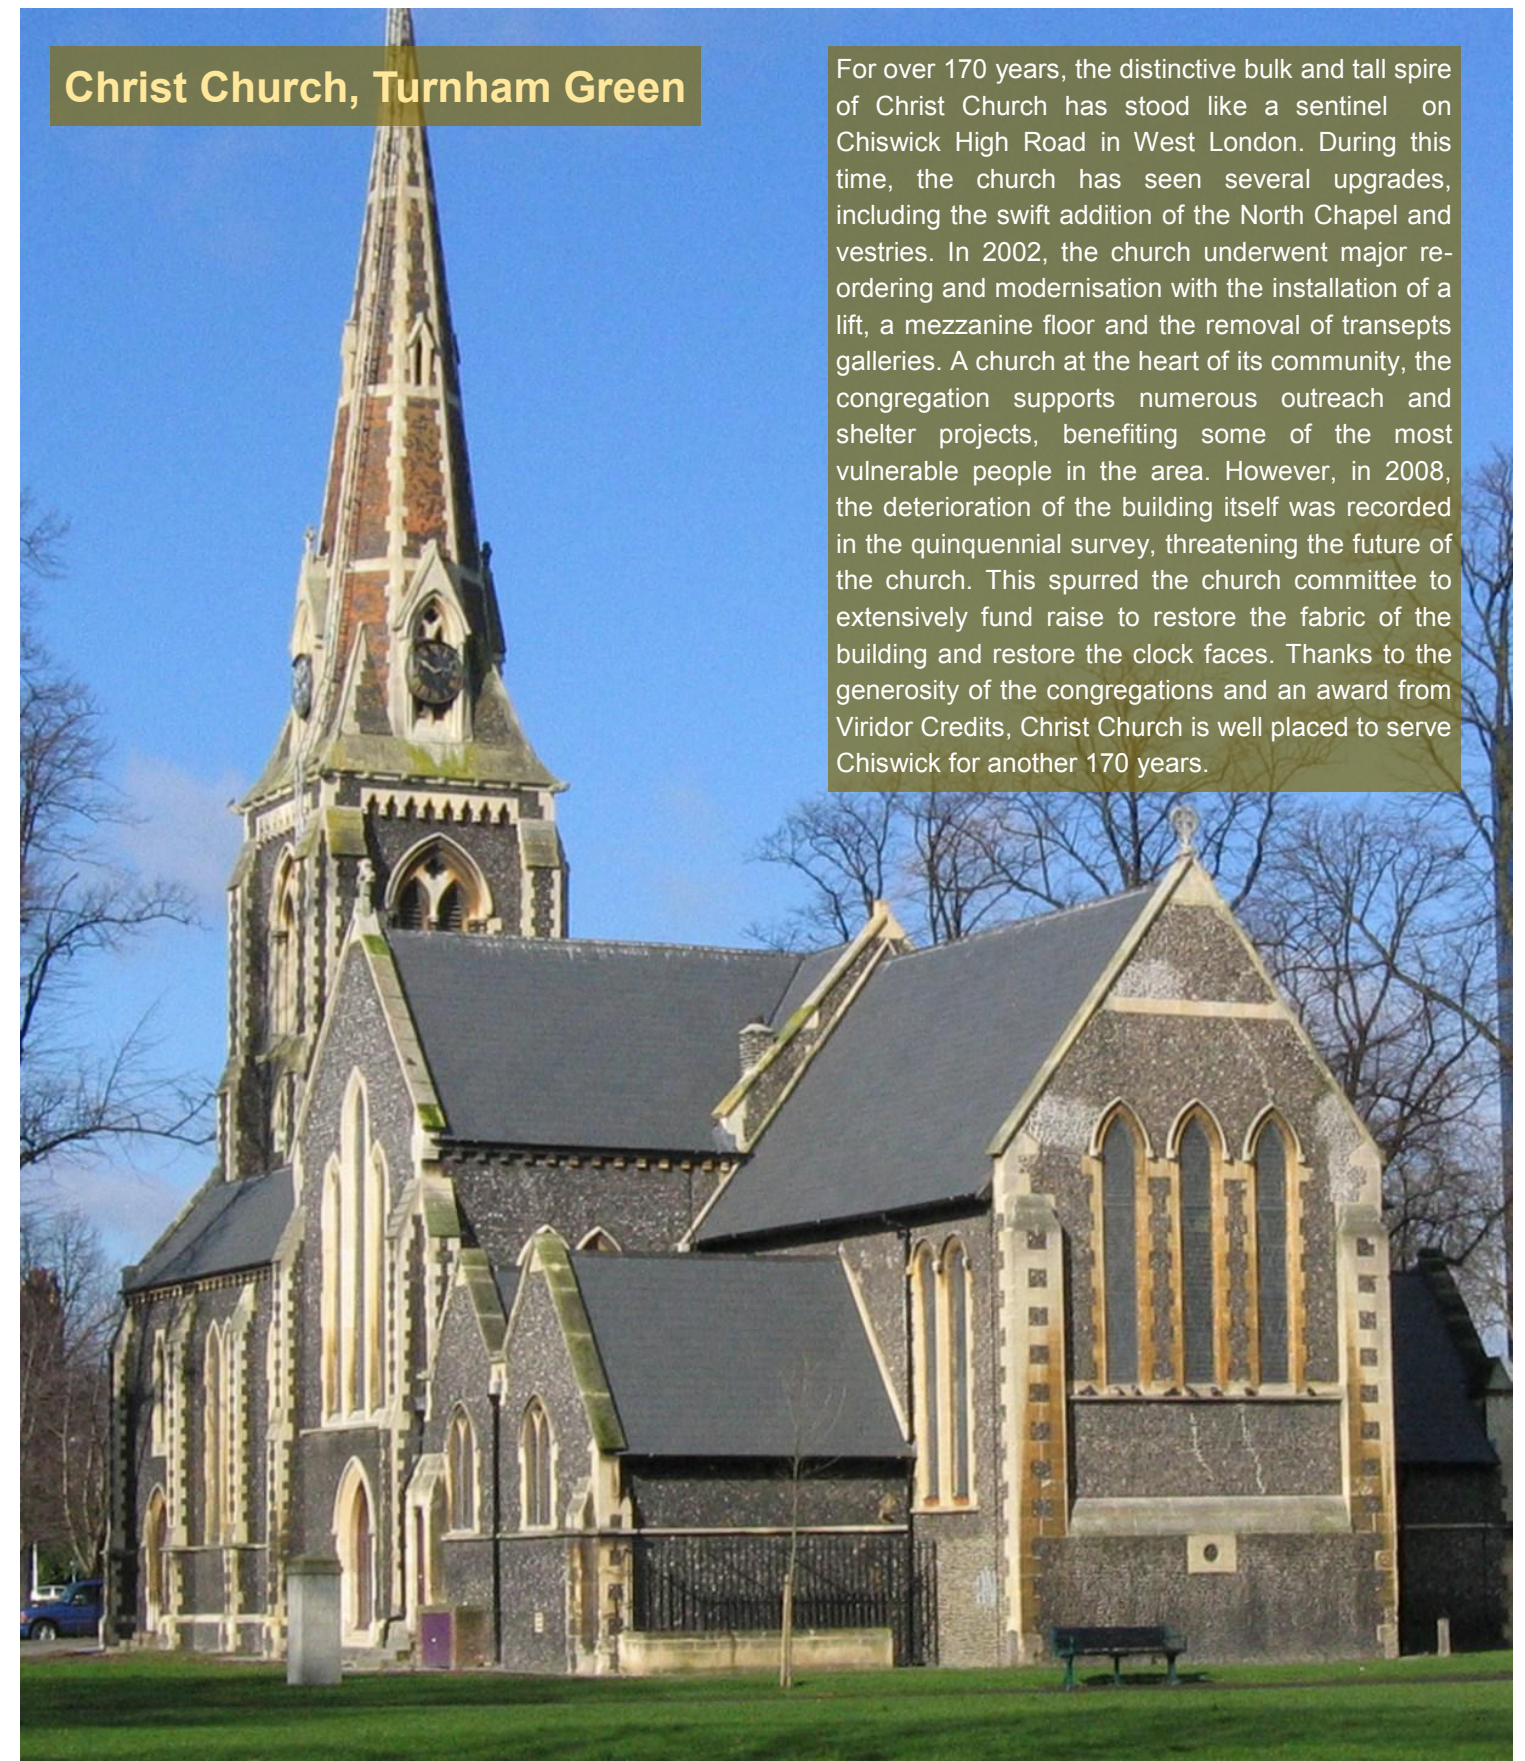

Stoborough Heath, Dorset

Heathland is an important yet fragile habitat that is home to some of Britain's rarest species. The fragility of the heathland means that it relies heavily on conservation work to be maintained. Stoborough Heath is part of the RSPB Arne nature reserve and in 2013, RSPB was awarded funding to manage the gorse on the 6.7ha lowland heathland site. This management cleared vast areas of gorse, creating a mosaic of herb-level habitats.

Christ Church, Turnham Green

For over 170 years, the distinctive bulk and tall spire of Christ Church has stood like a sentinel on Chiswick High Road in West London. During this time, the church has seen several upgrades, including the swift addition of the North Chapel and vestries. In 2002, the church underwent major re-ordering and modernisation with the installation of a lift, a mezzanine floor and the removal of transepts galleries. A church at the heart of its community, the congregation supports numerous outreach and shelter projects, benefiting some of the most vulnerable people in the area. However, in 2008, the deterioration of the building itself was recorded in the quinquennial survey, threatening the future of the church. This spurred the church committee to extensively fund raise to restore the fabric of the building and restore the clock faces. Thanks to the generosity of the congregations and an award from Viridor Credits, Christ Church is well placed to serve Chiswick for another 170 years.

Stansted Hall & Elsenham CC

Stansted Hall & Elsenham CC is an upwardly mobile club with a focus on youth development and community. The ECB Focus Club has been the recipient of three awards from Viridor Credits, the latest being for the installation of new twin-bay practise nets. The new nets will cement SH&E CC's position as a clubmark-accredited club and allow both junior and senior squads to hone their skills.

Hasketon Village Green

Despite the village's proximity to Ipswich, Hasketon is considered rurally isolated, particularly by its residents. The small, dilapidated play area on the green was the focal point for improvements by the newly-formed Hasketon Parents and Children's Playground Group. Extensive fund-raising and LCF funding has enabled the group to install new, exciting play equipment for the young people of the village, located on the popular village green.

Little Hulton Cricket Club

Little Hulton CC is a volunteer-run club with aspirations to achieve clubmark status. The old, manned scoreboard was cold, damp and ancient, and the wicket covers made from heavy tarpaulin. Funding has enabled the club to purchase an electronic scoreboard, which can be controlled from the warmth of the clubhouse, and lighter, wheel-mounted covers for when rain stops play.

St. Bartholomew's Church, Old Whittington

St. Bartholomew's is a classic Victorian church built on the site of a 12th century Saxon church. The second building burnt down in 1895 but was open again a year later thanks to public support. To this day, support for the church is still high, and when a quinquennial report highlighted problems with the roof, the congregation quickly raised half the cost of repairing it. Viridor Credits provided the other half, putting an end to wet pews, leaking chimneys and rusting gutters.

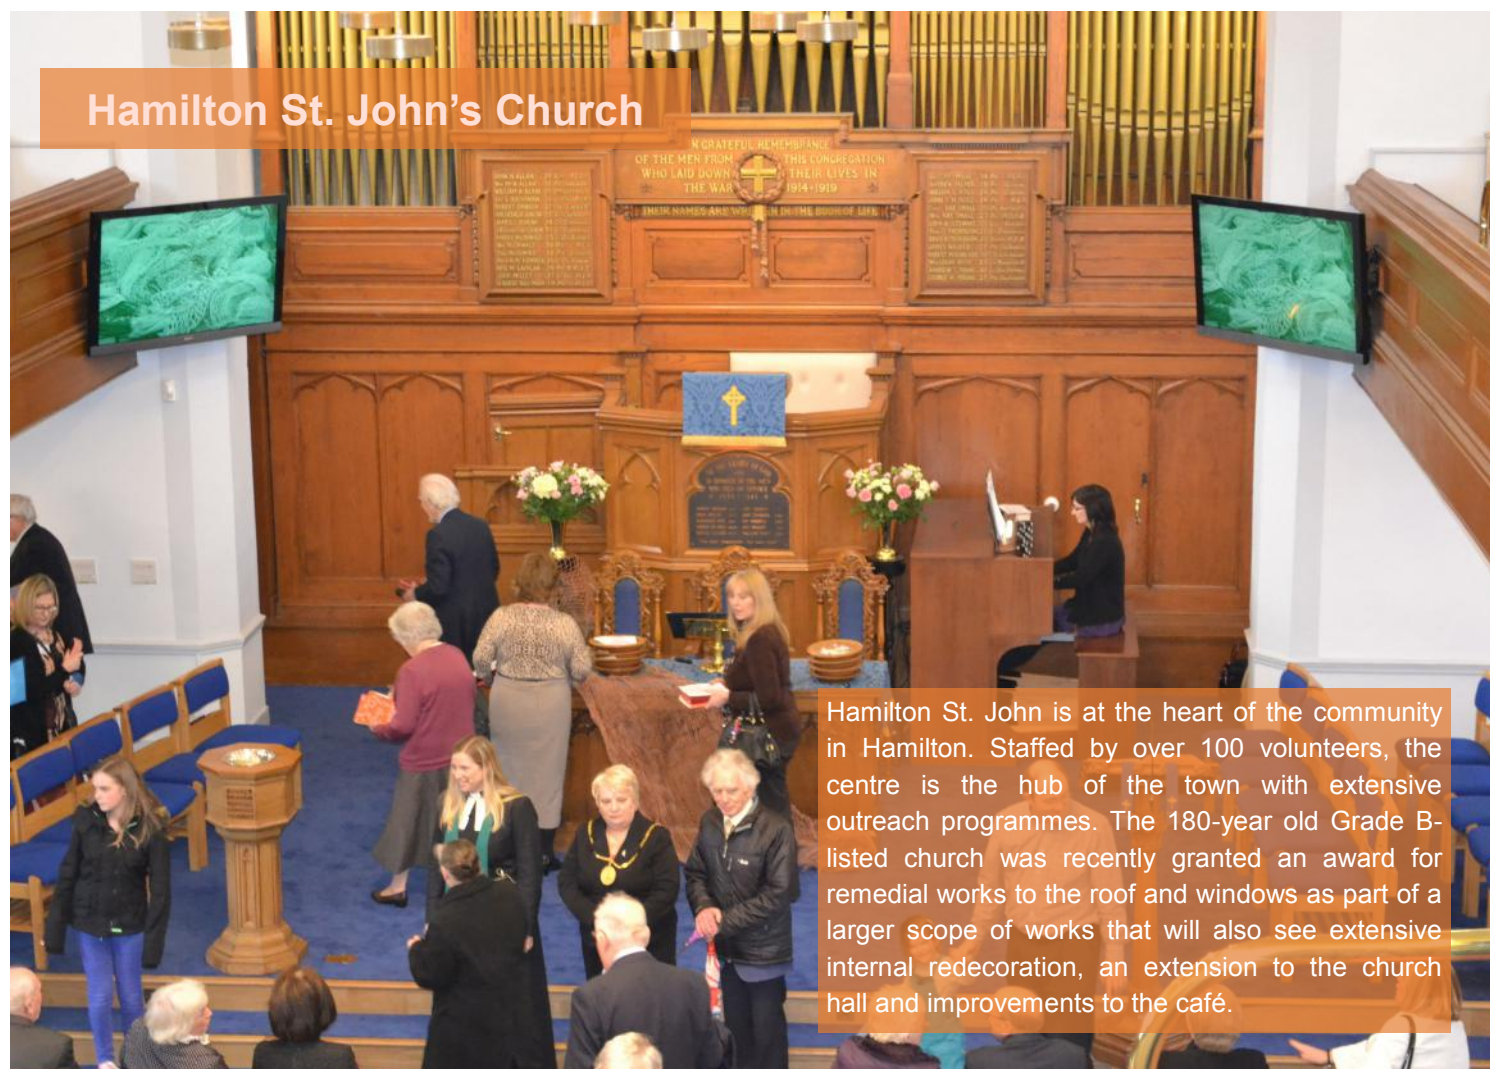

Foxlake Adventures, Dunbar

Foxlake Adventures was set up to help people engage with the outdoors, from sports enthusiasts to people with no previous experience or interest in outdoor activity. This was to be achieved by creating a unique outdoor adventure centre close to the John Muir park in East Lothian. The first phase, started in 2012 after the formation of the company, saw Scotland's first wakeboarding park established at Hedderwick Hill Farm, modestly comprising a cable tow system and two small buildings. Instant success, with an unprecedented number of visitors in the first year, has enabled the company to move forward plans to expand. An award from Viridor Credits helped with the addition of a second tow and obstacles in the lake as Foxlake Adventures looked to increase capacity to meet demand for the world's fastest-growing water sport.

Stepps Park, Glasgow

A popular park in the town of Stepps near Glasgow has been transformed thanks to the efforts of the Friends of Stepps Park. Intensive consultation with regular park users informed the design of the park, with a strong emphasis on inclusion of all members of the community. New play equipment, seating, access and drainage have contributed to the renovation of this beloved green space.

Hamilton St. John's Church

Hamilton St. John is at the heart of the community in Hamilton. Staffed by over 100 volunteers, the centre is the hub of the town with extensive outreach programmes. The 180-year old Grade B-listed church was recently granted an award for remedial works to the roof and windows as part of a larger scope of works that will also see extensive internal redecoration, an extension to the church hall and improvements to the café.

Meeth Quarry, Devon

The effect that human activity can have on wildlife can often be highly detrimental. Sometimes, however, man-made pits and quarries can become a thriving haven for some of Britain's most endangered species. Meeth Quarry, a 370-acre former clay pit in north Devon, is one such place where, after extraction stopped, the minerals company began a restoration scheme that now boasts grassland, woodland and breeding ponds for all sorts of animals. Continuing this work is Devon Wildlife Trust, who purchased the site in 2013 thanks to an award from Viridor Credits. DWT recognised the vast ecological potential of the site, as part of the national Living Landscapes vision, as well as the benefit of opening the reserve to people for the first time via the Tarka Trail. Development of the reserve is set to continue for the next two years.

St. Lawrence's Chapel, Crediton

In its 800 year history, St. Lawrence's Chapel has been used as a hospital, been razed to the ground in the fire of Crediton, rebuilt, lived in, used as an educational establishment and finally fully restored in 1921. Now a chapel and community space, the old building had been suffering from water ingress, causing damage to the interior. An award through Pennon Environmental Fund in 2013 helped to fund an extensive refurbishment programme.

St. Budeaux's Church, Plymouth

For many, the most distinctive part of their church is its bells. St. Budeaux's in Plymouth, one of only two Tudor churches in the city, has proudly rung its bells for hundreds of years, until severe corrosion of the wrought iron bell frame forced the church to remain silent. Urgent repairs were carried out to replace the iron with steel and prevent further damage to the church tower, with help from Pennon Environmental Fund.

Contributing Third

The Contributing Third Party payment is an essential condition for anyone receiving funding through the Landfill Communities Fund.

Every year, hundreds of organisations and individuals contribute to the success of projects that are funded by Viridor Credits by making this payment to the donor landfill operator, enabling Viridor Credits to release funds to projects.

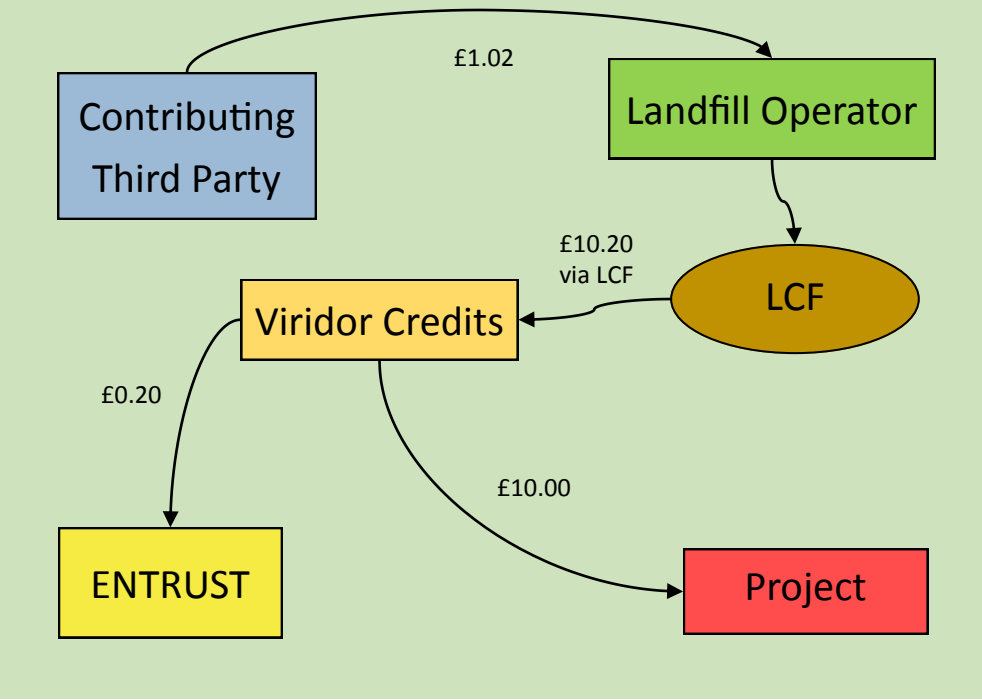

These are the unsung heroes of the scheme, without whom not a single project would receive LCF funding.

The following is a list of all those that have helped towards another successful year of funding.

THANK YOU.

How does the Contributing Third Party payment work?

For every £1.02 paid by a Contributing Third Party, Viridor Credits is able to distribute £10.00 to the project they are supporting. This year, CTPs paid over £950,000 to help lever out £9million from the Landfill Communities Fund to 250 projects.
